A. DA PRATO & COMPANY

ANTONIO and GIOVANNI DA PRATO, the founders of this business which was established in 1883, are still actively engaged in its management and take this occasion to extend their thanks to the Reverend Clergy and Religious Communities for the kind and liberal support given them, which has been largely the means of establishing their firm name so that it is an honor to the Catholics of this country. The Messrs. Da Prato in soliciting the continuance of these esteemed favors offer their personal assurance of continued diligence in the best interests of their patrons.

INTRODUCTORY.

THE embellishment of Churches with fine statues of divine and saintly subjects is known to be a very efficient agency toward helping the diffusion of the religious sentiment. The intimate connection that exists between that which is good and that which is beautiful was well known and appreciated by the Popes that lived during the Renaissance who gave charge to Michelangelo, Raphael, Della Robbia, Da Vinci, Da Maiano, Della Porta, Canova and numerous other illustrious artists to produce those wonderful creations adorning the Churches of Italy, which will ever form the admiration of the world.

Excellent groups and statues of religious subjects have at all times been made to adorn the finest churches of Europe since the early days of the Renaissance; the pure religious sentiment and love for the beautiful in the people of those times was of course a great incentive for the promotion of the fine arts, but to them the beauty of form was more than a pleasure to the mind and eye. It meant education in the loftiest sense and refinement of soul; it was religion itself that emanated from the block to raise the standard of public character and elevate human thought to a more beautiful life.

The influence which these wonderful works of art have exercised in the cause of Catholicism is as salutory to that religion to-day as it was centuries ago. It seems to be God's own will that the true faith should be made distinct through the grandeur of these works of art adorning His temples, especially that of St. Peter at Rome which is awe-inspiring to men of all creeds.

In this important function of Church Decoration practised for the glory of God and the stimulus of religion there is an example set forth by the Church dignitaries of the Renaissance, which we ourselves ought to follow as consistently as possible to-day. They always employed the best artists to carve and paint their subjects for this purpose, and it was thus that the house of God when fitly adorned with the most perfect art, succeeded better in drawing to itself the homage of the multitudes.

Our statues are warranted to meet this most exacting want as in artistic merit they excel all other makes and are highly recommended by numerous clergymen throughout the country for their superiority. It is advantageous to the Churches that more than one manufacturing house be made to exist through liberal patronage as in the maintenance of competition exists the incentive to produce the best works and to better satisfy the public want.

In another part of this catalogue, under the caption of "Our Offer" on page 5, we have made provision for the Reverend Clergymen and Religious Communities to order our statuary subject to examination and refusal without any expense to them should it not prove satisfactory in the widest sense of the word.

While our establishment may not be as old as that of some other houses in the same business it is to be observed that just for this very reason we never cease striving to excel our contemporaries in quality of work as well as in faithfulness of service.

Therefore we believe that it would be generally beneficial if the Reverend Clergy would compare more than one make of the product in question and choose that which proves to be the most adapted to this important purpose.

NOTICE.

OUR statues are made of a hard and durable stone composition after the "Roman Carton" process and painted waterproof in the highest order of decorative art, with the finest oil colors. Especial attention is given to that part of painting which serves to express the true character embodied in each different subject, by giving to the face particularly that majesty, dignity, or devotion as the history of the subject may properly suggest.

Decorative Classification.

Finish No. 1 consists of a deep scroll work around the border. For specimens, see illustrations Nos. 10 and 16. The price for this finish is the highest quoted under the illustrations.

Finish No. 2 is the same as No. 1 finish, with the exception that in place of the gold scroll work around the garment, there are two gold stripes. See illustration No. 14, on page 10, for specimen. The price for this finish is a medium between the highest and lowest quoted under the illustrations.

Finish No. 3 is the same also as finish No. 1, but contains still less gold ornamentation than No. 2. For specimen, see illustration No. 45, page 10. The price for this finish is the lowest quoted.

Our process of formation is exactly the same as the one adopted by the most reliable European manufacturers of late. It is known as the "Roman Carton" process, consisting of several chemical ingredients poured in the stone composition, which becomes absorbed by a canvas expressly prepared for this purpose. In this manner, the statue attains such a degree of strength and efficient construction that even in case of a fall it does not break so extensively as if it were of simple stone composition, and can be more easily repaired in case of injury.

We have new models constantly in course of execution, and we will cheerfully give estimates on the modeling of any special subjects not found in this catalogue, as we can copy from any design, photograph, and pictures that may be sent to us.

We guarantee safe delivery of our goods and make no charge for packing.

The lowest freight rates that can be possibly obtained for our patrons we always seek to procure when making a shipment.

NOTICE.—Continued.

It would be much more profitable to purchasers in the end if, for outdoor use, they would rather procure statues of granite, marble or real bronze. We carve in granite and marble, and would be pleased to submit estimates on the special execution of statues in these latter materials.

OUR OFFER.

To any of the Reverend Clergymen and Religious Communities who are not acquainted with the excellence of our Statuary, we propose to accept their order subject to the following conditions:

We would send by freight prepaid for examination any statue or stations that may be ordered. If our statuary, in comparision to that of any other manufacturer on the American Market, is not superior, or at least as good, it may be returned to us and we will pay all expenses. If found of superior merit, and convinces that its artistic qualities are unsurpassed, then the consignee will keep the statuary and we shall charge him freight costs and the price of goo ls accepted.

No higher warrant can be given to purchasers.

The goods that are thus sent for inspection will be considered accepted unless returned within ten days after being received.

Compare our work with that of others and judge of its merit for yourself.

BEWARE OF MISREPRESENTATIONS.

There are several importers in more than one large city who adopt a very dishonest method for convincing that foreign statues are the best. They exhibit with some of the best imported statues, a few of the poorest specimens they can procure from some local cheap manufacturer and deceive their customers by the very dishonest comparison.

The cause of such misrepresentation is easily explained. These unsc upulous dealers make more money on foreign statuary, and as a result the patron pays exhorbitant prices for imported statues that not unfrequently are inferior to those manufactured and sold in this country at lower prices. Do not be deceived. We respectfully invite the Reverend Clergy to honor us with their visit to our Art Galleries and see for themselves that it is possible to obtain most excellent work in this country without being obliged to depend upon European manufacturers and pay enormous prices solely for the foreign label which in many cases is a very expensive ornament on a poor statue.

GENERAL INDEX.

A General Index of all the subjects we carry in stock will be found alphabetically arranged at the end of this book.

MORE than all we can say in behalf of our Statuary, the merit of the work itself when seen will always prove to be the most reliable reference.

It has for a long time been the custom among manufacturers of Church Statuary to give more importance to the lucrative side of their vocation rather than seeking to impart in their productions those artistic accomplishments which ought to be the most appreciable property in every statue. The mere effect of colors is not the only essential requisite in a statue; it must show marked fineness of form, be it constituted in the anatomical detail, exterior lines or drapery of the figure at hand. There is a crispness of detail and delicacy of execution in a good statue, along with correct proportions and responsive character in the face and pose, that even the least trained eye cannot fail to notice. It is necessary that there should be as much adoption of technique in the modelling of a religious subject as there is in the execution of any other work of art. Our Statues and "Via Crucis" stations are warranted to possess all these artistic qualities, otherwise they would have no reason to exist for the important scope which they are to serve.

Our service in sculptors is the most able that could be procured in Europe; we are assisted by a staff of artists the most skilful and experienced in statuary painting we could find, and with such competent facilities at our command, we can give the Reverend Clergymen our earnest assurance that we can more than meet the most exacting demands and give our patrons the advantage of truly artistic productions at most reasonable prices. We now occupy five of the largest galleries of the kind in this country comprising an aggregate floor space of about 5000 square feet, and to the excellent merits of the vast collection of Church Statuary which we therein exhibit we have been honored with the warmest praise and encouragement by many of the most competent critics and also by numerous patrons whose unsolicited testimonials we preserve for the purpose of references if necessary.

More than to mere chance the wonderful and rapid growth of our business within recent years is certainly due to our having ascended to first place as makers of the best Church Statuary in America. This is itself a marked proof of our competent knowledge of the arts that may become more and more advantageous to our Catholic Institutions as the time goes by, if the valued support we have had from the Reverend Clergymen and Religious Communities shall be as liberal in the future as it has been in the past, a distinguished aid which we shall strive to be the more worthy for, if possible to achieve this by aiming always at higher accomplishments in the art of Religious Statuary.

Your obedient servants,

A. DA PRATO & CO.

NOTICE

OUR stations are made of a hard and durable stone composition after the "Roman Carton" process and painted waterproof in the highest order of decorative art, with the finest oil colors. Especial attention is given to that part of painting which serves to express the true character embodied in each different subject by giving to the face particularly the majesty, dignity, or devotion as the history of the subject may properly suggest.

DECORATIVE CLASSIFICATION

Finish No. 1 consists of stations artistically painted in harmonious natural colors according to tradition and richly decorated with gold, or finished in cream and gold, the frames to be painted according to environment of the church and decorated with gold.

Finish No. 2 consists of stations painted either in white, cream, or deeper color, with the fleshy parts painted in natural color but without any gold decoration whatever; frame painted in imitation oak or any other color desired.

Finish No. 3 consists of stations and frames painted either in white, cream, or stone color.

Our process of formation is exactly the same as the one adopted by the most reliable European manufacturers of late. It is known as the "Roman Carton" process, consisting of several chemical ingredients poured in the stone composition, which becomes absorbed by a canvas expressly prepared for this purpose. In this manner, the statue attains such a degree of strength and efficient construction that even in case of a fall it does not break so extensively as if it were of simple stone composition, and can be more easily repaired in case of injury.

We have new models constantly in course of execution, and we will cheerfully give estimates on the modeling of any special subjects not found in this catalogue, as we can copy from any design, photograph, and pictures that may be sent us.

We guarantee safe delivery of our goods and make no charge for packing.

The lowest freight rates that can be possibly obtained for our patrons we always seek to procure when making a shipment.

BEWARE OF MISREPRESENTATIONS

There are several importers in more than one large city who adopt a very dishonest method for convincing that foreign statuary is the best. They exhibit with some of the best imported stations and statues a few of the poorest specimens they can procure from some local cheap manufacturer and deceive their customers by the very dishonest comparison.

The cause of such misrepresentation is easily explained. These unscrupulous dealers make more money on foreign statuary, and as a result the patron pays exorbitant prices for imported statues that not infrequently are inferior to those manufactured and sold in this country at lower prices. Do not be deceived. We respectfully invite the Reverend Clergy to honor us with a visit to our Art Galleries and see for themselves that it is possible to obtain most excellent work in this country without being obliged to depend upon European manufacturers and pay enormous prices solely for the foreign label, which in many cases is an expensive ornament on a poor statue.
